

Health and Safety Policy

Red River Resources is committed to conducting its business without compromising Health and Safety, and to prevent all accidents. A safe workplace is fundamental to our success and to the well-being of our employees, stakeholders and the general public, upon whom our activities might impact.

Specifically, we will:

- Design and operate all facilities and associated infrastructure to provide a safe and healthy workplace and strive to ensure our facilities operate to the highest standards;
- Meets and strives to exceed statutory requirements and industry standards;
- Ensures leadership is the key driver of zero accident culture
- Regularly communicates and consults with stakeholders, including contractors and, as appropriate, local communities;
- Is actively involved in the development of practices and procedures;
- Undertakes training and preparedness which is critical to a safe workplace;
- Continually seeks to improve safety management systems and risk management practices; and
- Rigorously identifies and control risks by maintaining our health and safety risk management systems based upon risk management principles appropriate to the nature of work undertaken;

The responsibility and accountability for the successful delivery of health and safety performance rests with every employee. Employees shall, at all times, demonstrate their commitment to fulfil their 'Duty of Care' obligations to prevent all work related injuries and illnesses plus promoting and exceeding the principles of 'Zero Harm', which is the cornerstone of the Red River Resources Health and Safety Program.
